'A place to learn, a place to grow, a place to be me'

Sports day thank you, Parentview, This year's results, Summer Countdown.

Dear Parents and Carers,

Many thanks to those parents who joined us at sports day. It was an excellent event in a perfect setting and seemed to be enjoyed by children and parents, especially the ice creams (thanks PTA!). There are some brilliant pictures on the school website of the afternoon.

Parentview.

Parentview is one of the ways that Ofsted gather parents views on the school's performance. Many of you helped the school recently by completing our in house questionnaire and your comments have already been incorporated into the outline plans for next year's school development plan. If you are also able to log onto the Ofsted parent view and complete the short survey of 12 questions, it would be much appreciated. For more information about Parent View please visit: <http://parentview.ofsted.gov.uk> or you can also access Parent View from the home page of Ofsted's website.

This year's results.

Whilst we all know that there is more to school life than just academic attainment, it is nevertheless right to celebrate when children are successful. There are statutory national tests which the children undertake in year 1,2 and 6 and I am delighted to note how well the children have achieved in these tests this year.

Summer Countdown

I know that the last two weeks in school will pass very quickly and this is a good time to update your calendar. The children's end of year reports will be out tomorrow. This week we will also have our usual sports afternoon and club on Wednesday instead of Thursday, the end of year plays will be coming up on Thursday (2.00 and 6.30pm starts), the new starters for reception will be in on Friday afternoon, the starters' and leavers' barbecue is arranged for Friday evening (6.00pm) and the leavers' service will take place in the church on Sunday morning at 10.45am. That's a busy few days!

The following week, our last week of the year, looks a little easier. We have made arrangements for Mr Quirk, our new head teacher from September, to spend the morning in school on Tuesday in order to meet the staff and children. The PTA has arranged a film night after school on Thursday. On Friday, the last day of the school year, we will hold a special assembly, commencing at 2.30pm before school closes for the end of the academic year. I do hope that you will be able to join us for this.

Yours sincerely,

M Bertinshaw
