

Heads Up

Dear parents

Welcome back, I hope that you all enjoyed the half term break. We have a very busy half term planned and we sincerely hope to invite you all to church at the end of term for this year's nativity play on Wednesday 15th December at 6.30pm. Diary Dates for the rest of the term will be finalised next week.

The children have been using the book Where the poppies now grow this week to think about history, remembrance and British values. It's a beautifully written book and I would encourage you to read it again with your children if you find it in the library. Class 3 have also done some very grown up work and are prepared to study war poetry when they get to secondary school!

Poppies and wrist bands have been on sale at school this week and we will continue to do this next week too.

All the children have looked at the Firework Code today and discussed the dangers of fireworks. If you are going to a bonfire, do enjoy it and stay safe; I'm sure the Pott Shrigley one will be the best for miles around.

We'd like to invite you to visit Tegg's Nose Gallery to view our Autumnal Art Exhibition – we're really proud of the children's efforts at a recent art workshop so take a look.

We have been without any internet at school this week and I won't bore you with how extremely inconvenient and difficult it makes things for us but please bear with us and call if you need to get in touch as we can't answer any emails until we get home at night.

I hope that you have a great weekend.

Kind regards

Joanne Bromley
